Narcisse Raymond was "...one of the best known Frenchtown settlers, had taken up land west of Walla Walla by the 1840's. One of the battles of the Cayuse War was fought on his land, the spot now marked by a highway monument. The old cemetery on the hill bears his name on the common monument for the pioneers buried there. He was appointed sheriff of Walla Walla County in 1854 by the first Washington Legislature, he took charge of Fort Walla Walla County in 1855 in order to protect the settlers "forted up" there. Through his wife, Pauline Walla Walla, he was considered to be related to numerous natives in the region."
